

Partners

Cave Hill National Cemetery, Louisville
Clarksville Historical Society
Colonial Cahokia State Historic Sites, Illinois
Division of Historic Preservation and Archaeology, Indiana Department of Natural Resources
Facilities Management, Indiana Department of Administration
Falls of the Ohio State Park
Fort Kaskaskia State Historic Site, Illinois
George Rogers Clark Heritage Association, Ohio
George Rogers Clark National Historical Park, Vincennes
Historic Locust Grove, Louisville
Indiana Historical Society
Indiana State Archives
Indiana State Library
Indiana State Museum and Historic Sites, Indiana Department of Natural Resources
Indiana State Museum Foundation
Indiana 2016
National Center for Missing and Exploited Children
Ohio Division of Travel and Tourism
Old Fort Harrod State Park, Kentucky
Randolph County Tourism, Illinois
Sons of the American Revolution National Society and Indiana Society
South Ripley Elementary School, Versailles
State House Tour Office, Indiana Department of Administration
Vincennes/Knox County Convention & Visitors Bureau
Vincennes State Historic Sites

The Indiana Historical Bureau Invites You to Attend

EXHIBIT OPENING AND CEREMONY

Celebrating the 225th Anniversary of George Rogers Clark and the Fall of Fort Sackville

February 25, 2004, Special Activities 11 am-3 pm

*in the Great Hall at the Indiana State Library and Historical Building
Exhibit continues to May 28, 2004*

The Fall of Fort Sackville by Frederick C. Yohn.

George Rogers Clark and his men endured a march from Fort Kaskaskia (now Illinois) to British-held Fort Sackville (Vincennes, now Indiana).

Fighting bitter cold, icy flood waters, and near starvation, they successfully captured the fort from the British on February 25, 1779, securing for the United States lands that became the Northwest Territory from which five states, including Indiana, were formed.

For more details, see our Web site at <www.IN.gov/history>.